

Amendments to the Specification

Please insert the Abstract as a separate page following the Claims in the specification.

Abstract

This invention provides purified PKB Ser 473 kinase and methods of purifying it. The methods involve the use of several sequential steps, including subcellular fractionation to isolate a plasma membrane fraction and the use of gel filtration or chromatography that separates molecules according to their size or affinity.